

SHAKESPEARE IN THE SCHOOLS

These hands-on workshops explore Shakespeare's language through movement and play.

TARGET AUDIENCE

4th–10th grade students
Language arts, social studies, gifted and talented,
and arts/drama classes

EDUCATORS

All programs are delivered by two teachers (one professional actor and one theater teacher). Curriculum is developed by professional theater educators.

WORKSHOP PLAY OPTIONS FOR 2018

Romeo and Juliet, A Midsummer Night's Dream, The Tempest, or Julius Caesar (anti-bullying component)

SCOPE AND DATES

Residencies are available January–March, 2018. Cost varies based on length of residency (one to five days broken into 45–90 minute workshops).

The foundation of SHAKESPEARE IN THE SCHOOLS reflects the Colorado Academic Standards and includes a heavy emphasis on 21st century skills. Our goals for these workshops are three-fold:

- Make Shakespeare more accessible by helping students to empathize with characters, while discovering a sense of physicality and movement
- Give students a sense of empowerment as performing artists by encouraging self-direction
- Create a space for critical thinking and reasoning through problem-solving and collaborative play

All workshops include a study guide for teachers to use in the classroom and a planning meeting with the education coordinator before teaching begins.

We will evaluate students at the close of this program by observing their performance skills to look for improvement in public speaking and a greater sense of self-confidence in front of their peers.
